THIS WEEK 27-30 APRIL 2015

FROM TRUCK TO TRASH

I was a young buck sergeant at Fort Irwin, California, in 2004 when I purchased my first four-wheel-drive vehicle, a 1986 Chevy Blazer. The Blazer had a 10-inch lift kit and I was running 39-inch mud tires. I thought it was the greatest truck in the world and felt invincible behind the wheel. After all, I now owned a monster truck that could go anywhere.

THE GOOD PILOT

I believe a little bit of every instructor pilot or pilot in command goes into a new PC. As a junior PC, I don't have many "there I was stories." I have, however, learned many things from the aviators I have flown with in the past — some good and some bad.

CARELESS CONVOY

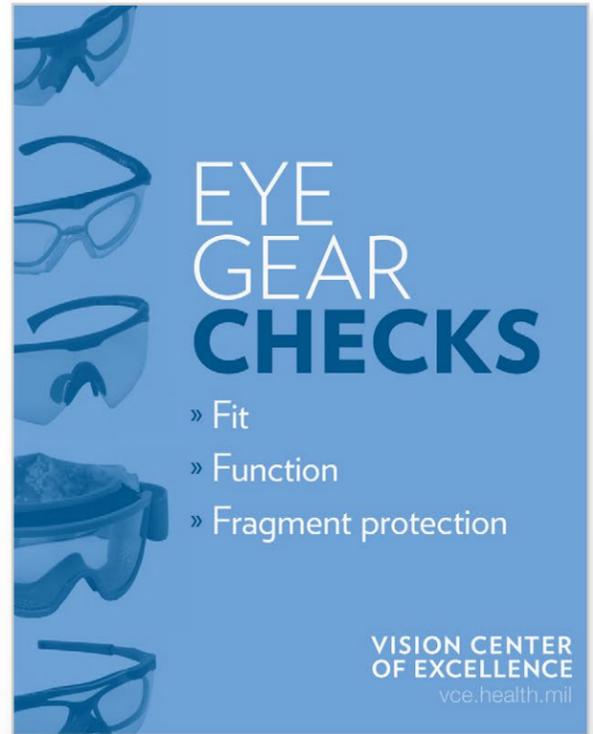

There I was, smack in the middle of a range day at the Basic Officer Leaders Course. The day was fairly uneventful and everything ran smoothly with no major incidents of any kind to report. Then came the convoy back to the TOC building.

DID YOU KNOW?

May is national Motorcycle Safety Awareness Month, and the U.S. Army Combat Readiness Center is launching a media campaign May 1 to highlight this critical issue. Feature articles, posters and public service announcement videos will be released throughout the month as part of the campaign, as well as links to news stories recognizing the motorcycle safety efforts of formations across the Army. Check out the initial launch at <https://safety.army.mil> and visit often as new materials are added during May. Ride safe!
